

It is our great pleasure to introduce our new Alcius air conditioning parts catalogue and the jam-packed first edition is enclosed with our compliments.

Bapcor launched the Alcius Complete Climate Control air conditioning parts, tools and equipment program in 2019, combining the major global product sourcing and development resources of Australasia's largest automotive aftermarket specialised company.

The range is designed for the Australian market of passenger motor vehicles, light commercial, heavy duty, truck, mining and agricultural. Alcius is trusted to do the job by setting a new benchmark in service and quality, distributing over 6,500 SKU's across a broad range of genuine OE manufactured brands and supported by the Alcius range of quality aftermarket replacement components.

A commitment to constant product range expansion also ensures that the Alcius replacement parts range meets the requirements of Australian automotive repairers and air conditioning specialists well into the future.

According to Bapcor Group Category Manager, Mark Caldone, "We are steadfast in our commitment as leaders and progressive product innovators, to continually expand and improve existing products to meet the needs of our valued customers along with the ever evolving number of vehicle makes and models on our roads."

"The Alcius climate control product range provides Australian a/c repairers and auto electricians with a total one-stop air conditioning parts solution." Bapcor's premium quality product sourcing, our highly skilled air conditioning and related climate control product experience, combined with our unparalleled national distribution footprint, positions us to be market leaders for air conditioning parts." Mark adds.

Alcius climate control parts are available exclusively from Bapcor's leading automotive aftermarket trade outlets across Australia, which form part of the country's largest aftermarket network. This ensures that you receive your direct-fit air conditioning parts exactly when you need them from nearby locations.

For any detailed automotive climate control replacement product assistance, contact your local JAS Oceania dedicated and experienced customer service representative, ensuring you get the right advice and parts when you need them, so you can get on with servicing your customers or visit jasoceania.com.au

We look forward to continuing to grow the premium quality Alcius climate control component, tools and equipment range well into the future using Bapcor's unparalleled global reach and product development expertise.

Thank you taking the time to discover the Alcius quality product range and for your ongoing support, with Alcius you're in complete control knowing we'll keep your business moving.
